

Eva Guidarini – WV - 2011

It's about our bright prospects. But it's also about our right now. It's about what we learned from the movers and shakers of our world. However, it's more about what we learned from each other. It's about an open dialogue that has yet to close, between 102 students, who are ready to soak up all they can, and then turn around and use it to take on the world. It is about friendship, laughter, and white chocolate capitols. It is about the moments, the words, and the speakers that left us in awe. It's about a celebration of inquisitiveness, and a plea for open minds. It is about military mentors, amazing people, whom you will not soon forget. It's about our education. It's about ninja. It's about the fact that we are members of a generation, labeled as apathetic; but who could say that looking at us? It's about being told, by Justice Thomas, that the biggest thing the Supreme Court can do, is say "I was wrong." It's about standing 10 feet from the leader of the free world. It is about the United States of America, and those who defend, represent, and lead it. It's about us, all we are, and all we will be. It's about one unforgettable week.

Here's to our extraordinary future.
